

HONEST EFFORT MADE BY ELEVATORS TO MEET GRAIN GRADING RULES

Dr. E. F. Ladd, Chief Inspector,
Says Federal Standards
Present the Rub

An honest effort is being made by every elevator man in North Dakota to comply with the provisions of the state's new grain grading act, Dr. E. F. Ladd, chief inspector, believes. The head of this big system, which embraces 2,200 deputy inspectors, is in the city attending a meeting of the state board of education. He appears well satisfied with the way in which the new act is working out. The big difficulty, he declares, is to grade wheat by federal standards. To make all the tests which the government regulations require would, Dr. Ladd believes, necessitate the employment of ten inspectors by every little elevator in the state. The average inspector, he declares, could not possibly grade more than ten loads of wheat a day, if he followed the provisions of the federal statutes closely, and the average elevator receives 100 loads daily when wheat begins to come in. He is much pleased over the announcement that wheat grading under No. 3 may be sold on sample, and he believes that ultimately the federal grades will be simplified and made workable, much to the advantage of the elevator man as well as the farmer.

LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE STARTS; LAUNCHED TODAY

Women's organizations will send solicitors through every office building in every city. Clergymen have been asked to preach liberty loan sermons, and thousands have signified their intention of doing so.

The subscription books open today and close Oct. 27, allowing practically four weeks.

The bonds officially will be known as the SECOND LIBERTY LOAN BONDS. They bear 4 per cent interest, 1-2 per cent more than the first Liberty Loan, but unlike the first bonds are not given such a liberal tax exemption.

The first bonds were exempted of all taxation excepting only inheritance taxes.

The second bonds are exempt from normal federal income and (in case of individuals) excess profits taxes, but are subject to surtaxes. They are exempt from all state and local taxes excepting inheritance taxes.

The first Liberty loan bonds may be exchanged for "converted" into second Liberty loan bonds, which in turn may be exchanged for any future bonds bearing a higher interest rate.

The second Liberty loan bonds are in denominations of $5, $10, $50 and $100.

They can be paid for on the installment plan, 2 per cent with subscription, 18 per cent Nov. 15, 19 per cent a month later and the remainder about Jan. 15.

The purchaser of a $50 bond would pay $1 down, $9 Nov. 15, $22 Dec. 15 and $22 Jan. 15.

This gives him 18 weeks to pay the whole.

Already employers all over the country have offered long-term payment plans for employees who could not pay the entire sum in 18 weeks.

It is expected a much larger subscription will be made for the second loan in rural districts than was obtained when the first loan was floated.

New the farmers are cashing in on their war profit crops, and have plenty of money.

George leaving Washington McAdoo said he would not appeal to the people purely on the ground of patriotism.

"I will make an appeal upon the merits of the security first," he said, and then I will say to them, when you are getting this superlative investment, this most liberal investment in the world, you can also render a service of patriotism to your country.

"The proceeds of the bond you buy will go to arm, feed and clothe some gallant son of some brave and courageous mother."

TO BUY BONDS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 1.—August Hermann, chairman of the National Liberty Loan commission, announced today that he would recommend to his colleagues at their coming meeting in Chicago that the money received by the national commission, the interested clubs, and the players during the world series, excepting such sums as may be necessary for expenses, be invested in the second issue of Liberty bonds.

PLENTY OF CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR CAMP GREENE

Chaplain Assured That Patriotic
Ladies Will Remember
Soldier Boys

There'll be no lack of Christmas cheer at Camp Greene. Everywhere Chaplain Markley of the Second stopped on his recent tour, he called upon the ladies to adopt a soldier boy and to organize auxiliaries which will remember the Sammies with holiday boxes when the Yuletide rolls around, and in between, too. The ladies are spending enthusiastically. Carrington's Literary club, through its secretary, Mrs. Frances Allen Swinton, advised Lieut. Markley that it intends to continue contributing to the chaplain's fund and that it has under consideration various plans for raising money and making up boxes for the boys at camp.

The chaplain's fund will be devoted to the hundred and one needs which will arise in the regiment for little comforts, conveniences and luxuries for the boys. Lieut. Markley, himself, did not cease being a boy a very great while ago, and he is expected to prove a capable administrator for this fund, which will be replenished from time to time by contributions from home-folk. In a number of localities auxiliaries are being organized as the chaplain had suggested, to regularly remit money or boxes to Camp Greene. North Dakota women, everywhere, are readily undertaking the pleasant task.

BISMARCK AND FARGO ELKS PREPARING FOR GRAND OFFICERS' VISIT

North Dakota for First Time in History of Elkdom to Enter.

tain Exalted Ruler

Bismarck and Fargo Elks are making elaborate preparations for the first official visit of grand lodge officers to North Dakota. The lodges have been advised that Grand Exalted Ruler Fred Harper of Pinchburg, West Va., Grand Secretary Fred Robinson of Dubuque, Ia., and Grand Trustee Kingsey will officially visit Bismarck on October 19 and Fargo on October 20.

The event will be made the most notable in Bismarck Elk history. Preparations are being made for an entertainment which will be typical of North Dakota and will, it is hoped, compare with anything which the grand officers have enjoyed in their long tour from coast to coast. They are returning from a visit to all of the larger cities on the Pacific coast, stopping en route at Seattle, Butte, Helena and other of the larger cities.

BISMARCK'S LAST GUARDSMEN LEAVE

the movement of the Second began today.

Many From Bismarck.

Bismarck sends even more men with the Second than it did with the First. While Co. A and the hospital corps of the First are essentially Capital City units, in the Second Bismarck and the Slope have Co. J, the headquarters company, except the band, and a large percentage of the supply company, originally assigned to Hillsboro. Sunday was a day of leave-taking for the boys of these several units who reside in the city. That this is a war of all classes was again demonstrated by the sight of young men in the uniforms of privates scouring the city in luxurious touring cars which they are surrendering to fight in the ranks as the humblest of Uncle Sam's soldiers. From all Slope towns which have contributed their quota to these companies—and this means every town of any size in the district—came relatives and friends yesterday for a last visit with loved ones.

Boys Glad to Go.

As in the case of the First, the boys are glad to go. Life here for Co. J in particular has been rather monotonous, as the soldiers have been confined to the rather close quarters of the army and have not enjoyed the city in luxurious touring cars which they are surrendering to fight in the ranks as the humblest of Uncle Sam's soldiers. From all Slope towns which have contributed their quota to these companies—and this means every town of any size in the district—came relatives and friends yesterday for a last visit with loved ones.

Christmas dinner in Paris, is a promise which appeals to the men of the Smashing Second, and they feel it will be realized.

The first division to which the North Dakota regiments are assigned will be commanded by Major Gen. H. L. Scott, with Lieut. Col. M. Craig chief of staff; Major A. L. Singleton, assistant chief; Major H. H. White, adjutant; Major Benjamin F. McClellan, inspector; Major W. B. Deas, judge advocate; Lieut. Col. H. M. Merriam, quartermaster; Lieut. Col. Orville G. Brown, surgeon; Major Henry T. Eugin, ordnance officer; Brig. Gen. H. Jarvey, artillery commander; Brig. Gen. E. A. Wedgwood, 8th brigade; Brig. Gen. R. Coulter, 1st brigade; Brig. Gen. E. Vollrath, 5th brigade.

Beach Co. in Good Shape.

Beach, N. D., Oct. 1.—Co. M, Second North Dakota infantry, left this morning for the front. Since the company was first started, a total of 147 enlistments have been made, 21 of which were rejected for physical disability of some sort. The fact that some 30 young men enlisted for different branches of the service besides those who are in Co. M gives this section of the state an enviable reputation as to patriotism. The county also furnished 10 men under the selective draft. While some of this number are to be credited to adjoining counties the very large percentage comes from Golden Valley county. Besides the company, four members from the hospital corps are attached to the company for the trip to the training camp.

Besides the enlisted men, Capt. Charles I. Cook will have command of Co. M and will be assisted by Robert A. Sprague as first lieutenant. Doctor A. B. Mac Knab has also received his commission as first lieutenant in the medical officers reserve corps making three commissioned officers from this city.

Lieut. William A. Paulsen, who has been temporarily in command of the company during the suspension of its regular commissioned officers, left for Dickinson this morning hoping to resume his position in the machine gun company. White here he has endeared himself to all who have made his acquaintance.

MODERN ESAUS SELL THEIR HERITAGES FOR POLITICAL PREFERMENT, SAYS CLERIC

The Esau of the Scriptures who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage has his modern counterpart in men who are today juggling with the price-less birthright of citizenship and willing to barter it for gold and political preferment. Rev. George Buzzelle, rector of St. George's church, told an audience which last night filled the Grand theatre for the first of the popular Sunday evening services planned by Rev. Buzzelle.

The rector told us that "for ye know how afterward, when he (Esau) would have inherited a blessing he was rejected, for he found no place of repentance though he sought it carefully and with tears."

Rev. Buzzelle said:

"The story of Esau is a tragic one, and one that makes a strong appeal to most of us. Rugged, red-blooded, son of an aged and dotting father, his very impetuosity is made to confuse our judgment of his case. We pity him because he received so little for his birthright, just a morsel of food. And we pity him again as we read the Apostle's account of the transaction for he found no place of repentance though he sought it carefully and with tears."

"Esau's sin was found in his undervaluation of his birthright. Jacob and his mother valued it so highly that they were ready to let it out for a morsel of food, the smell of the savory meat was enough to banish all regard for the priceless heritage. Esau was very human, and in his experience we seem to read our own story. What one of us who does not know in his innermost heart that he has bartered things of great worth for mere baubles or worse?"

"There are men today who are juggling with the priceless birthright of

INSPECTION OF ELECTRIC WORK NOW REQUIRED

State Fire Marshal Reade Calls Attention to Necessity of Making Provision

CITIES COMPLYING WITH ORDERS OF DEPARTMENT

The fact that every municipality in North Dakota of 1,000 population or more must revise present fire ordinances or enact new ones to provide for electrical inspection under an act of the last legislature was emphasized this morning by State Fire Marshal H. L. Reade who is chief electrical inspector.

Comparatively few municipalities now provide for electrical inspection, and several are considering new fire ordinances which do not carry the necessary provision. The state fire marshal urges that these ordinances be amended in order that the cities may comply with the law. Minot, he declares, has a splendid fire ordinance which provides for electrical inspection and makes the inspector self-supporting. He suggests that other municipalities get in touch with the Minot City.

At Minot, the state board of electrical examiners in its first meeting passed on 24 candidates for state licenses as electricians. Such a license is now required from every electrician operating in the state, whether he be a journeyman, master or specialist.

At Rugby the state fire marshal sat in an appeal from one of his decisions, condemning a building as a fire trap, and his order was modified. In the case of 12 other structures, which he recently condemned at Rugby action is being taken in connection with the inspection of elevators. Local deputies are progressing satisfactorily, and that the disloyal elements have become convinced that the destruction of food resources in North Dakota is not a safe posture for militant pacifists.

TRACE DISEASE TO CONSTIPATION

One of the points on which different schools of medicine practically agree is, that about 90 per cent of all diseases directly traceable to intestinal putrefaction of stomach waste due to inactivity of the bowels or constipation. The eliminative process is an essential factor in digestion and on its proper functioning depends the welfare of the entire system.

Constipation is a condition that should never be neglected. As soon as the bowels evidence the slightest disposition to slow up, a mild laxative should be taken. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle, is highly recommended as a corrective, acting gently in an easy, natural way without griping or other pain or discomfort. A trial bottle of this excellent family remedy can be obtained free of charge, by writing to Dr. W. S. Caldwell, 433 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

What About Herzog?

Purman Gives You a New Line on the Temperamental Giant Star

BY PAUL PURMAN.

With the Giants—I am going to tell you a few things about this Buck Herzog situation.

There is no more talked about person on either of the world series teams than the so-called temperamental Giant second baseman and wherever the big series is discussed Herzog's name is one of the first to be mentioned.

Now Herzog's presence or absence in the world series means a whole lot to the series.

Even the most ardent Giant rooters would hesitate before betting much of their coin on the Giant machine and his absence from the lineup means that McGraw must either use the untitled youngster Jimmie Smith at the keystone sack or must switch Zimmerman to that important position and use the veteran Lobert at third.

But the interesting fact I picked up at the Giant camp was not what would occur should Herzog not come back—it was what the effect on the club would be if he should return.

Ball players are phlegmatic as a general rule when it comes to discussing one of their number with someone outside the club—this is true of the Giants but there is a feeling on the club which cannot be disguised and it is directed against Herzog.

It is a feeling which any body of men, earnestly and faithfully toward a goal will direct against one of their number who does something to interfere with that work.

Members of the Giants feel that Herzog's absence from the club during the final pennant drive has weakened the ball club and perhaps will have an effect on team work in the world series.

Herzog has left the club before this season and neither McGraw nor the men are inclined to overlook this last absence, protracted after a slight injury in a railroad station several weeks ago.

Friends of Herzog considerably explain his lapses as due to temperament. Fellow players and others not so kindly disposed have an entirely different explanation. Herzog is hot headed and whether or not he has a temperament, he undoubtedly has a temper, and he is very likely to violent.

PICKS WHITE SOX AS WINNER

Expert Has Seen Both Teams in Action and Describes His Favorite

By PAUL PURMAN.

New York, Oct. 1.—The White Sox should win the world series.

After watching both the Sox and Giants in action on several recent occasions and comparing the two teams by the way they appeared as they neared the wire I cannot see where the Giants have more than the chance of very good luck in winning.

In figuring on a short series many things besides plain mechanical play must be considered as more than casual possibilities.

Perhaps the most important thing to consider at this time is the feeling of the men on the two clubs toward each other.

The White Sox are like a big family. The men all get along well with each other and they like Rowland, who has never tried to detract credit from them to help himself along.

I will not say there is active dissension on the New York club, but I do know that there is bad feeling toward Herzog, since he left the club recently, the men believing that he deserted at a critical time.

I will not say that there will be any open fight on Herzog if he returns, but the feeling will remain and a ball club divided against itself is in pretty tough luck.

In case Herzog does not rejoin the club the infield will be greatly weakened regardless of what lineup shifts McGraw makes.

In either case the situation is not a happy one for New York.

It also helps that the club that gets away well will have a big advantage. I do not believe it will be possible to beat the White Sox if they grab the first two games, and it will be pretty hard for them to head the Girins should McGraw lead off with two wins.

Even with these considerations if both clubs are going at top speed when they strike the classic, it will be one of the most brilliant series in the history of the game, as both clubs play a more or less open game based on a terrific attack rather than on tight defense, such as marked the playing of the Red Sox and Athletics during the last few series.

For this reason, if both clubs are going well, a series of six or seven games, brilliantly played may be expected.

If either team happens to hit a slump and play raggedly, I believe it will be the Giants, a club which often acts badly in a pinch. In that case it should be a walkaway for the Sox. I only mention this as a possibility.

Mechanically Chicago has the strongest club. It isn't a big margin but it is enough to count, although margins are often overcome in short series.

Both clubs have powerful attacks. There is not a weak hitter from Burns to McCarty on the Giants nor from Leibold to Schalk on the Sox. Either club, if in its proper batting stride is likely to beat any kind of pitching.

The Sox have an edge there for their relief pitchers are more likely to stop a batting streak than McGraw's. Only a short time ago I saw McGraw send in his four right handers against the weak Pittsburgh club and everyone with the exception of Anderson was manhandled shamefully.

I believe that McGraw will send Saltee against the White Sox in the opening game, relying on the lanky southpaw's crossfire to stop the American league entry. Cicotte probably will start for the Sox, although there is a chance Faber will be used if Rowland figures he is right.

On the second day McGraw is likely to come back with southpaw speed pitching either Benton or Schupp, particularly if Saltee is successful. Russell probably would be Rowland's choice in such an event.

If the Sox should get to the Giants' best southpaw, McGraw would be in pretty bad shape, for Pettit is about the only right hander he can depend upon.

This is the situation as I see it. McGraw's difficulties with his infield—the possibility of dissension on the club combined with the more or less erratic tendencies of his club, to my mind give the Sox a fair advantage.

Lubricating Bearings of Business

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 1.—Lynn is a lesson to America. It has just completed a little piece of business which makes it worthy of being held up to other cities as a pattern.

Strikes throw sand into the bearings of business these days, and a 90-100 per cent pure, self-lubricating program guaranteed to keep the wheels greased and running smoothly at topnotch production capacity is immensely valuable at this particular critical period of American history.

For five months there was a strike in the shoe factories of Lynn, Mass. up one of the city's most important industries costing the community wages and the employer's contracts, and hampering the city's part in the war organization of the country.

All state and private agencies had tried to settle it—and failed. It seemed hopeless. However, it is off now; the men are at work, and Lynn is quick-stepping along with its share of the industrial program.

It's a recipe worth having, filed away in the card index of the city. A newspaper and a big man—that was the winning combination.

Manufacturers and workers: Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the Massachusetts Public Safety Committee, is the man to get you together for Lynn's sake. Will you accept him as arbitrator and do as he says? This in substance was the broadside editorial appeal of the Lynn Evening News.

The News "put" Endicott "over" as arbitrator, and within two hours after he met the warring factions, Endicott had "put over" his settlement.

Endicott is of the firm Endicott Johnson & Co., world's largest shoe manufacturers, but has sacrificed his own business concerns for his public work for his state, as manager of its Public Safety Committee. In this capacity he has settled many strikes.

Inspectors and deputy inspectors, examiners, investigators and employees of a similar nature for whom no necessity for surety bonds and formal oaths ever has been seen by former administrations.

Biggest Financial Bonus In Years To Be Distributed

New York, Oct. 1.—The biggest financial bonus of the baseball year is to be distributed soon in the form of a division of the gate receipts of the World Series; Series gamblers of 1917. When the New York National and Chicago American League players receive their share of the money, paid in the form of admission charges by the thousands of spectators who will attend the contests, they will be able to deposit to the credit of their bank accounts sums larger than the yearly income of many of the fans who will witness the play.

The players will not be the only ones to profit, however, for the club owners and the National Commission also come in for a percentage of the receipts, which are expected to exceed a quarter of a million dollars this season. Under the rules of the latter body, which have governed the World Series since 1905, the division is made in the following manner: The National Commission receives ten per cent of the receipts of each and every game played by the contending clubs; the remaining ninety percent of the first four games is divided upon a basis of two thirds to the players of the contesting clubs and one third to the club owners. With the playing of the fourth game the players cease to share in the receipts and the two clubs involved divide by the receipts equally, after the National Commission has taken its ten percent. The players' share of the World Series funds are apportioned upon a basis of sixty percent to the winner and forty percent to the loser, while the two clubs as corporations are required to contribute a certain amount of their portions to the leagues of which they are members.

That these sums are not to be considered lightly, even in the present days of extraordinary financial operations, may be realized when it is stated that the receipts of the thirteen series played since 1903 have aggregated $2,874,224. Of this huge amount the players have received $1,180,823, the club owners, $1,411,156, and the National Commission $282,242. The rules governing the series specify that each club shall name in advance of the play the men who are eligible to participate in the games. These players receive one share of the winning or losing teams percentage with certain arrangements for groundkeepers, mascots and others connected with the teams in a minor capacity.

Some idea of the sums that fall to the share of players who engage in the World Series may be gained from a glance of the records of preceding struggles. The largest amount went to the members of the Boston Americans who played and won the eight game series from the New York Nationals in 1912. That year each regular member of the Red Sox received $4,024. The next highest amount was $3,910, also captured by the Boston Americans of last season as a result of their defeat of the Brooklyn Nationals. The smallest sum received since 1903 was $1,142, by the New York Nationals in the series against the Philadelphia Americans in 1905. The Chicago Nationals hold the minimum losers record with $439, when the Chicago White Sox won the title in four out of six games in 1906.

ASSUME AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP WITH ALL ITS BURDENS

LaMoure, N. D., Oct. 1.—Declaring that they realized that America was involved in a great war and appreciated the grave responsibilities which they were assuming in becoming American citizens at this time, three Swedes, a Dane and a Belgian took their final oath before Judge Coffey in the district court here. The jurist made the ceremonies more impressive than usual and advised each candidate of the importance of the step they were taking.

CHEERY LETTER FROM LADY DRUMMOND HELPS DAKOTAN IN HOSPITAL

Flaxton, N. D., Oct. 1.—A cheery, chatty letter from Lady Drummond, which he encloses, comforts and splendid nursing are among the things which Victor Beckel mentions in a letter to his mother here as making "convalescence in a London hospital bearable. Victor, serving with the Canadian contingent, was wounded in the French trenches. Writing of his experience, he says: "Well, I guess my time hasn't come yet for a spell. I was hit in several places by pieces of shells, and only left black and blue marks. None of them broke the skin. Then he (the German) started throwing over gas shells, and I got some. My nerves are still a trifle on edge, so it may be some time before I go back to France." He proudly mentions a letter from Lieut.-Col. Bullock expressing pleasure over his rapid recovery, and closes with "lots of love and kisses" for an anxious mother whose only former advice as to her son's condition had been contained in brief cablegrams from the war office.

MINOR EMPLOYEES MUST FILE BOND AND OATH OF OFFICE SAYS BILL

Attorney General Rakes Up Old Statute at Expense of Clerks and Deputies

Scores of deputies, clerks, assistants and other employees, many of whom are drawing salaries which barely suffice to meet expenses under war conditions, are subjected by a new ruling of the attorney general to an expense of $15 to $30 for surety bonds and the filing of oaths of office, never heretofore required of mere employees whose administrative acts always are subject to review by superiors, and whose opportunities for getting the state or the "administration" in bad are slight.

In casting about for something to reform, the attorney general discovered an old clause in the North Dakota statutes which, as he interprets it, makes possible the imposition of the state straightway he issued an ultimatum demanding that this clause be enforced. The average $15-a-year employee consequently faces the necessity of investing the greater part of one week's wages in a $500 surety bond and of paying the secretary of state a $2 fee for the filing of his oath of office.

This ruling affects all deputies, assistants, chief clerks, a great army of

JACK THE PEEPER TAKES NO CHANCE

Woman Opens Fire With Rifle

Marmarth, N. D., Oct. 1.—Marmarth maids have proven too much for "Jack-the-Peeper." When one of this ilk was detected peeping in at the window of Sid Dixon's home, Mrs. Dixon seized a gun and blazed away at him. When last seen the "peeper" was making tracks for Montana. A number of Marmarth women who have the sleeping porch habit had been disturbed recently by the prowler, whose admiration for the human form divine had led him to intrude upon the privacy of the fair slumberers.

ROOSEVELT DEFINES KINDS OF PACIFIST

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 1.—The psychology of the pacifist was the principal theme in Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's speech before the Loyal League here last night. In his analysis of the conscientious objector he asserted that they range from the "paleo pacifist, who represents the rotting out of the virile virtues of the people," to the "rough neck type, who is perfectly willing to fight not only for himself," and the "war-crazed type." The Colonel declared: "Don't let them be actuated by a laziness or desire to avoid performance of a national obligation, sheer physical cowardice, or in the service of the German military machine."

"There remains," the Colonel continued, "the conscientious objector who really does conscientiously object to war and who is sincere about it. As regards these men we must discriminate sharply between those who put righteousness above peace and those who put peace above righteousness and there serve the devil." The first attitude is that of the "Quakers and the peace people," directly opposed to the inclusion of men who object to all participation in any war, however brutal the opponents and however vital triumph may be to us and mankind."

The Colonel concluded his address by praising the work of the military training camps and making a plea for universal obligatory service and declared "we should insist on the democratic spirit and square deal" and make officers "out of the best stuff of these young men without regard whether they or their fathers have money or do not have money."
